

Problems Of Producers To Be Discussed At Conference In London

Vancouver — Belief considerable progress would be made in conference in London in regard to the problems of the New Zealand wool producer in the British market was expressed by the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. G. W. Purves, of the southern division, in an informal talk to the press here last night.

The prime minister arrived Friday on the A.R. Aircraft and left for the east in the afternoon. He will make an overnight stop at Haast and spend some time in the Otago region, before the time remaining before the opening of the King's jubilee celebration did not allow further stopovers in Canada or more time for discussion of mutual problems. He will sail from New York on the Aquilina, April 27.

He has always found the British ministers very fair, said Mr. Purves in his talk, "and when dealing with them they always have their cards on the table."

New Zealand, as a primary producer of raw materials, has become caught in markets. At the same time the British market tended to become glutted with footstuffs from over the world. Post-jubilee conventions would deal with this problem.

New Zealand had experienced a marked improvement in regard to wool sales, though the price of wool products were still low, exports had been cut out and the farmers had been able to carry on.
